

Hussain Agah is a leader in his profession with 16 years of comprehensive experience in program and construction management, planning development and project certification. He has worked in many high-scale and well established programs as a construction manager, owner's authorized representative and program management consultant, overseeing multiple projects worth millions of dollars. He has total of nine years' experience with California public works – six at Los Angeles Unified School District and three at San Bernardino Community College District, both CHC and SBVC.

Hussain has a Master's of Science in Civil Engineering, with a Construction Management major; he is also a Certified Project Management Professional (PMP), Certified Construction Manager (CCM), and Accredited Professional in Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED).

Hussain's interests are hiking, biking, reading, listening to classical music, and interacting with diverse professional groups. He and his wife, Sarah, have two baby boys – Ali, 3, and Zain who is little over 1.