Stolen Smart Phone? Brick It!

In an effort to decrease the theft of smart phones, the San Bernardino Community College District Police Department encourages you to take heed to the below information.

Roughly 40% of all robberies now involve smart phones—endangering the physical safety of victims, as well as the security of the personal information on the stolen devices. In addition to the loss and injury experienced during the initial crime, there is an added risk of identity theft if the stolen smart phone isn't password protected to prevent a thief from getting access to private information on the device.

If a person's smart phone is lost or stolen, he or she may now contact the carrier and ask to have that device remotely disabled. If a smart phone is rendered inactive in such a manner, it's often considered to be as useful as a "brick." These "bricked" phones are of little use to thieves because they can't be reactivated after being sold on the black market. The Police Department is encouraging victims of smart phone thefts to call their carriers and to "brick it" in an effort to deter smart phone theft.

By bricking your phone, you will permanently disable your device and help eliminate the black market for stolen smart phones. We can reduce robberies by eliminating the reason criminals steal smart phones in the first place!

On behalf of the San Bernardino Community College District Police Department, Brick It!
