Youth Violence Prevention

Youth violence is a serious problem that can have lasting harmful effects on victims and their family, friends, and communities. The goal for youth violence prevention is simple-to stop youth violence from happening in the first place. But the Solutions are as complex as the problem.

Many prevention tools have been developed and implemented; many of these prevention programs and strategies have been evaluated, and found to be effective at preventing violence and related behaviors among youth. Such evidence-based programs have shown positive effect in rigorous evaluations.

Effective and Promising Programs

- Striving To Reduce Youth Violence Everywhere (STRYVE) Strategies Selector Tool
STRYVE is a national initiative led by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to prevent youth violence. The STRYVE Strategies Selector Tool pulls together information from multiple sources to help communities connect with evidence-based youth violence prevention approaches. The strategies included have been rigorously evaluated and shown to impact factors for youth violence and/or lower the occurrence of youth violence.
- The Community Guide for Violence Prevention
Developed by the Task Force for Community Preventive Services, a nonfederal group of experts in public health and prevention, the Community Guide includes recommendations for preventing youth violence based on systematic reviews of evidence-based strategies.
- The National Registry of Evidence-based Programs and Practices \(NREPP\)
The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) supports NREPP to help connect the public to information about evidence-based approaches that promote mental health, prevent substance abuse, and treat mental health and substance abuse. The registry includes interventions with violence outcomes.
- Blueprints for Healthy Youth Development
Blueprints for Healthy Youth Development is an online resource for communities to learn more about model or promising strategies that reduce youth violence or key risk factors for violence, and promote healthy youth behavior and relationships.
