Peak Season for Burglary

The summer conjures visions of beach vacations, relaxing in the sun, taking road trips, and simply enjoying time off from school and work. While the summer months are known as vacation time, it's also peak season for burglaries. Are you prepared to keep your home safe while you are off enjoying the summer sun?

Why Summer is the Peak Season for Burglary

Why are summer months the peak time for burglaries? It probably has to do with many of us going on vacation, worried more about packing a suitcase and slathering on sunscreen than we are about security in our home. According to the FBI, crime rates increase approximately 10% in June, July, and August. The simple reason for the crime rise could be because people let their guards down. In the rush to get ready for vacation, home security is often forgotten. Other reasons for crime rising in the summer could include schools being on break and more teenagers being around or simply that the heat makes people cranky.

Tips to Keep Safe

If you are planning a vacation:

- ◆ Contact a trusted neighbor and let them know your travel plans. Your neighbor can keep an eye out around your house.
- ◆ Stay off social media. Don't post travel plans, "check-in", or post photos while you are away.
- ◆ Lock all the doors. Make sure all doors and windows are securely locked.
- ◆ Make it look like someone is home. Stop your mail and newspaper delivery, put timers on lights inside and outside, and leave a car parked in the driveway.

Install a Security System

Perhaps the most important advice to keep your home and family safe is to install a security system. The system and the security signs and stickers that come with the alarm help deter theft. In most cases, if a burglar sees an alarm, he will move on to an easier target. It's estimated that homes without a security system are three times more likely to be broken into than homes with a security system. Decrease your odds of a home break in by researching home security systems and getting one installed.
