Black Film Festival

In celebration of Black History Month, the SBVC Arts, Lectures & Diversity committee hosted a free and public Black Film Festival over the course of February. The festival, held in conjunction with SBVC's Black Faculty & Staff Association, aimed to highlight movies that have evoked strong and poignant points of view. The line-up featured critically acclaimed and award-winning films, including Get Out, Sorry to Bother You, BlackKlansman, and Black Panther. Following each presentation, campus and community members discussed the themes presented in each film and its relevance to today's culture and society.
