- 1. Please select the distance education method that describe how the course content will be delivered. Check ALL methods that will be used for offering this course, even if previously approved.

- FO – Fully Online
- PO – Partially Online
- OPA – Online with In-Person Proctored Assessments
- FOMA – Fully Online with Mutual Agreement

- 2. In what way will this course, being offered in distance education format, meet the needs of the campus? (Ex: Student Access, Campus Strategic Plan, Campus Mission Statement, Online Education Initiative (OEI), Student Equity, Student Needs). Please be specific.

The class offered in the online format will give students greater and access and flexibility to students who work or have other obligations that make it difficult for them to attended during a scheduled class time. To address student success the instructor will inform the students of their role in the support and assistance of the student and provide information on campus resources that also support student success, campus resources, use multiple tools to support instructor-to student and student-to-student interaction. The course is transferrable to the CSU and UC systems.

- 3. Will this course require proctored exams?

- No
- Yes - If yes, how?

- 4. How will the design of this course address student accessibility? Are you including any of the following?

- Captioned Videos
- Transcripts for Audio Files
- Alternative Text for Graphics
- Formatted Headings
- Other – If other, please explain.

DISTANCE EDUCATION ADDENDUM

5. Provide a specific example of how the instructor will provide synchronous office hours for distance education students? (Ex: Online Conference Tool, Cranium Classroom, Zoom, Pisces, Skype, etc.)

The instructor will provide synchronous office hours through a video conferencing tool such as Zoom. The instructor will schedule an online office hour where students can drop in online during the office hour. Through the use of the waiting room in Zoom students will have privacy during their Zoom meeting with the instructor.

The instructor may also use the scheduling tool in Canvas to set specified office hour appointments with students via Zoom.

6. Provide a specific example of how this course's design ensures regular and effective instructor-student contact? (Ex: Threaded discussion forums, weekly announcements, instructor prepared materials, posting video and audio files, timely feedback on exams and projects, synchronous online office hours, synchronous online meetings, synchronous online lectures, etc.)

The course design of the class will ensure regular and effective instructor-student contact by weekly threaded discussion forums on a topic related to an intermediate life drawing class. For example, students can select a contemporary artist's figure drawing and students can discuss the artist's use of technique, line, form, value, composition, pose and anatomical proportions.

The course design will also include instructor prepared materials on observational drawings using traditional and experimental media, advanced study of anatomy and the structure of the human body, the principles of special illusion including linear, atmospheric, foreshortening and other perspective systems, advanced composition and compositional theory for figure drawing, advanced color schemes and color theory for figure drawing, how to develop expressive content, and how to critic drawings using relevant terminology in oral or written formats and the material can be uploaded to the Files section of Canvas and to Modules in Canvas each week. Topics of the course will also be presented through video links to YouTube and recorded demonstrations in the designated modules and made available along with the printed materials as the topics of each module are presented to the students in a weekly format. The instructor can also provide live demonstrations through the use of Zoom at prespecified times and scheduled into the course through the use of the calendar.

Students can upload .pdf or jpg files and submit those into Canvas at specified times according to the instructor's due dates. The instructor can then use SpeedGrader to annotate on top of the image. Marks and dropped pinned comments can be placed on the images, which is much more specific than just written comments. Students can also upload images and the instructor can download the images and share the images through Zoom or in weekly threaded discussions for classroom critiques or at times indicated in the syllabus.

7. Provide a specific example of how this course will ensure regular and effective student-student contact? (Ex: Threaded discussion forums, assigned group projects, threaded discussions, Notebowl, peer-to-peer feedback, synchronous online meetings, etc.)

DISTANCE EDUCATION ADDENDUM

Students will upload photos of their life drawings to Canvas taken with their cell phones according to weekly assignments. The instructor can download the files from the Grade function of Canvas and present the images to the students for a classroom critiques using Zoom for an online meeting or with threaded discussions, peer evaluations, group work and Zoom breakout room where students comment on each other's artwork.

8. Describe what students in this online version of the course will do in a typical week on this class. Include the process starting after initial log in.

Students are given a weekly assignment on Canvas and will find this in the Assignments tab in Canvas. The weekly assignments will have a specified due date, typically a week from when the assignment was posted. The project may be a multi-part assignment and they will be given time to work on each part.

On Canvas the students will find a class front page for the course and in that front page they will find a link to modules for each project. The class front page is based on the syllabus for the class and will list the various projects to be worked on. In each module the student will find the assignment, instructional information for the specific project, links to demonstration videos, such as those found on Daily Life Drawing sessions, links to videos that support the historical and contemporary aspects of assignment, such as links to artists who have used the same techniques, supplies needed to complete the assignment and anything more that may be relevant to the course, such as online gallery tours. Through email or virtual office hours the students may ask for assistance and have one-to-one tutoring arranged at specific times. Using virtual office hours, arranged Zoom presentations and threaded discussions students may ask questions or see what the others are doing. Students are expected to work on their projects for three hours per week and also work on any preliminary handouts assigned as part of the project so when the work is submitted it should reflect this effort in its quality. When the student submits their artwork, the instructor will assess the quality of the artwork with the use of rubrics and written forms and determine if the student has put the effort required to address the course objectives. To reiterate, the students will receive an assignment, they will work on the project with the instructor's assistance and guidance through demonstration videos and face-to-face Zoom meetings if needed and by email. At the end of the week the students will submit the assigned project for grading.

9. Provide a sample statement that could be included in the syllabus for this course that communicates to students the frequency and timeliness of instructor-initiated contact and student feedback.

The instructor will respond to voice mail or email questions or concerns within a 24-hour period, with the exception of weekends and holidays.

10. Provide a specific example of how regular and effective student-student interaction may occur in this online course.

Topics or prompts related to drawing will be initiated by the instructor and students may interact with each other through weekly threaded discussions with required responses, and prescheduled Zoom breakout sessions, peer evaluations and group work using Canvas.

11. Provide a specific example of how regular and effective instructor-student interaction may occur in this online course.

DISTANCE EDUCATION ADDENDUM

A student can upload work to Canvas in the assignments folder according to specific due dates listed in the syllabus or announced through the announcements feature in Canvas. The instructor can comment on the work using the comments feature of the SpeedGrader. The instructor can make weekly or bi-weekly announcements about assignments, due dates, online gallery shows and campus information on Canvas to provide regular instructor-student interaction. If the student has a question about an assignment, the student can email the instructor through Canvas and ask for a one-on-one Zoom session at an agreed upon specified time or schedule a meeting for an online chat at an agreed upon specified time.

12. Does this course include lab hours? No Yes – If yes, how are you going to accommodate the typical face to face activities in an online environment?

Through uploaded instructional files and written handouts, threaded discussions, recorded and live demonstrations, chat rooms, and student critiques through threaded discussions and video conferencing.

13. How will you accommodate the SLO and Course Objectives in an online environment?

The course objectives to research the concept of content in life drawing, and create a drawing that has personal, symbolism as content, create a life drawing that has social commentary as content, develop expressive content through manipulation of line, form, value, color, composition, and art history, demonstrate the ability to use color with perspective to heighten the illusion of space to create forms that give the illusion of mass, volume, and weight, demonstrate the ability to develop new techniques through experimentation with materials, apply the principles and elements of composition and fundamental skills of figure drawing to create a series of more complex and sophisticated figure drawings, research narrative life drawings and determine a way to create a narrative drawing that could be from the categories of framing history, personal memory, or stories, develop conceptual direction in addition to formal concerns within their own body of work, critically evaluate and critique their own work and the work of others using relevant terminology in oral or written formats, design and produce a portfolio of original intermediate-level life drawings in multiple media and formats that successfully demonstrates subjective and expressive uses of value, technique and concepts, experimentation with wet and dry media, observational and expressive use of color, and non-traditional composition, formats, surfaces and materials can be accommodated through uploaded assignments files, threaded discussions, links to instructional videos on YouTube, links to sites such as Daily Life Drawing Sessions, instructional videos created by the instructor and uploaded to Canvas, uploaded student assignments, and synchronous video conferencing. The student learning outcomes to experiment with materials to create a figure drawing, create a figure drawing using perspective and use techniques that create the illusion of space can be accommodated in the same manner.

14. Are modifications needed to SLOs or Course Objectives in order to teach this course in the online modality?

No Yes – If yes, please explain the changes needed.

(It is advised that if you are changing course content or objectives that you speak with the Curriculum Co-Chair or Articulation Officer for guidance moving forward.)
